w repeating shotgun patented by John soe Browning of this city, and which now being manufactured under his survision in Belgium, is simply unprecented in the history of the sale of firents. Although the weapon is not yet riy on the market, orders from every mer of the country have been pouring for months, and this great demand, apled with some delay in the manufacter of the arm, has swamped the order partment of the Ogden firm which is ting the gun on the market. The two delay in the gunse already filed with George E. Brownstand of the weapons as they arrive from Igium. Thus far all that it has been soft the death-dealer to firms that we placed the larger orders. A consignant of sixty reached the Browning, Aumatic Arms company—which is the most the corporation organized for a manufacture and sale of the gun—a y or two ago. They were distributed lots of one and two and sent 20 the ge sporting goods concerns of the st. The Browning Brothers company Ogden, whose officers and stockholdare practically identical with those of cother firm, received but one from a consignment.

the other firm, received but one from the consignment. A letter received from John M. Browning, who is at the factory, near Liege, Belgium, where the weapon is being made, states that the factory has installed machinery for making 100 per lay, but the workmen being inexperienced, have thus far been able to turn out no more than fifty. Within a short time there will be a steady stream of the manufactured articles coming across the Atlantic amounting to 000 each week. With such an unheard-of demand for the weapon already created, and with the more distant markets—South America, lanada. Russia and other foreign countries yet to hear from—it is predicted that the gun will make the name of Oglen and her celebrated inventor known pretty much all over the world.

JAKE SEDAM OF DENVER HAD AN IDEA WHICH DIDN'T WORK

Jake Sedam is a resident of Denver, Colo. Sedam is also a well known sporting character among the trap and trigger experts of not only Denver but the entire intermountain country, where his fame with the pump-gun has placed his name among the crack shots of the west. Sedam is very fond of duck shooting and his desire to chase the elusive teal, mallard and pintall caused him to join the Bear River Duck club, the famous resort for duck shooting on the north borders of Salt lake.

When Sedam visited the c'ub this fall, he brought along an idea for getting the ducks without too much physical exertion on the part of the hunter. The idea will not be patented, however, and others may use it if they so desire. One day this week Sedam called several of the club members out to see his new contrivance to fool the ducks which was anchored on the banks of the Bear river near the club house.

It is described as looking like a big tub, with one of those revolving stools perched up in the center, not unlike the seats at the city ple counters. Over all was spread a big umbrella to keep off alike the sun and rain. This was the Sedam lide that was to create such havoc with the un-
